

Hallo Jay!
Now I going to tell you about Sweden.

The capital of Sweden is called Stockholm, Sweden has about 9,5 millions inhabitants. Sweden's area is around 450 000 km². So Sweden isn't nearly that big as USA. In Sweden we have monarchy, our King named "Carl XVI Gustaf" and our Queen named "Silvia".

The Castle of Stockholm

In Sweden we have much forest, the usual forest is coniferous forest. We also have much coast, we have coast both on the west and east side. I live on the west coast and I love it!

In Sweden we have four seasons, from the cold winter where we can ski to the summer where we can bathe in a pretty warm sea.

Our animals is found throughout North, some examples are: moose, foxes, bears, venisons, hares, rabbits, seals and beavers.

Venison

We celebrate some big holidays in Sweden, we celebrate Christmas, Easter, Midsummer, and Halloween.

Christmas:

Here in Sweden we celebrate the Christmas at the 24th December, it isn't like USA there you get the presents at the 25th, no we meet the Santa Claus and he gives us the presents.

Easter:

When we celebrate easter the easter-rabbit hides eggs with candy inside that the children can look for.

Maypole

Midsummer:

We celebrate Midsummer on a Saturday between the 20th June and 26th June. On the Midsummer we eat herring and potatoes and dance around the maypole.

Halloween:

Halloween in Sweden isn't near so big that it is in USA, it is only some children who go out for "Trick or Treat".

We have pretty much famous people here from Sweden throughout times.

Some modern examples are:

Zlatan Ibrahimovic' (football player), Charlote Kalla (skier), Marcus Hellner (skier) and Anja Pärsson (alpine skier).

Some older exemples are:

Björn Borg (tennis player), ABBA (pop band), Alfred Nobell (inventors and bussiness manager) and Olof Palme (famous Swedish prime minister).
